Shalom Aleichem is a Jewish liturgical song composed by Israel Coldfarb in 19 what is sung every Friday to mark the eve of the Sabbath. Translated from Hebrew as "peace be upon you", and accorates the ching in the Jerusalem Talmud, two angels accompany people on their way back home from synagogue on Friday night—a good angel and an evil angel. If the house has been prepared for the Shabbat, the good angel utters a blessing that the control of Shabbat will be the same, and the evil angel is forced to respond "Amen"; but if the home is not prepared for Shabbat, the evil angel is presses the wish that the next Shabbat will be the same, and the good angel is forced to respond "Amen". This iteration of the control of the control of the University of Delaware Master Players Concert Series for performance with the University of Leware Chorale at Carnegie Hall, New York, February 16th, 2019.
